Item 8.01. Other Events.

On March 23, 2012, Equity LifeStyle Properties, Inc. (the “Company”) filed its 2011 Proxy Statement on Schedule 14A with the Securities and Exchange Commission. On or about March 28, 2012, the Company will mail a Notice of Internet Availability of Proxy Materials to stockholders of record at the close of business March 6, 2012. The booklet entitled “The Life in a Day of Equity Lifestyle Properties 2011” (the “2011 ELS Storybook”) will be available for stockholders to view, together with the Company’s 2011 Proxy Statement on Schedule 14A (including proxy card) and the 2011 Annual Report. The 2011 ELS Storybook contains a letter from the Company’s Chairman of the Board, Mr. Samuel Zell and the Company’s Chief Executive Officer, Mr. Thomas P. Heneghan, information about the Company’s properties, an industry growth comparison, pictures of certain of the Company’s properties and various short stories and commentary from the Company’s customers. Accordingly, as the 2011 ELS Storybook could be deemed to be solicitation materials under the proxy rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Company is filing this Current Report on Form 8-K.

Dear Readers,

If there's one constant in this world it is that everything changes. How we adapt to change is what makes all the difference.

A principal goal of ours is to generate long-term annuity-like cash flow streams. We do this by investing in high quality properties featuring resort-style amenities in sought-after markets – markets where our target demographic is seeking to be. We focus on creating long-term relationships with our customers. Combined, that provides us with the steady, growing revenue stream characterizing our historical performance.

But in these changing times, the needs of our customers are changing. So we adapt. Combined, the strength of our robust operating platform and our core business, our seasoned management teams, and the efficiencies with which we use our resources and capital, create the right mix to allow adaptability.

On the MH side, as the economy continues to fluctuate, our customers' needs have changed. Just a few years ago, the average sale price of a home in our manufactured home communities averaged $100,000. As the housing market turned, our customers looked for a lower cost option so we sought to create affordable new home options for them. We also saw our customers' ability and willingness to buy homes were changing so we adapted by increasing our home rental options within that market.

And, with the completion of our acquisition of 75 Hometown America properties in late 2011, we increased our manufactured home community presence in two of our strongest performing markets; the Northeast and Florida. The acquisition itself was an example of our adaptability. In late May we announced our intent to purchase these properties and by early July had completed closing on the first 35. By early December, the transaction was complete and full integration of these properties into our portfolio had begun in earnest.

With proven success in our annual stay programs at our Encore RV Resorts, we chose to adopt the Thousand Trails structure to include similar options. The result has been positive RV revenue growth year after year since our entry into the RV business in 2004. Additionally, changes were made to the Thousand Trails membership structure, moving away from high cost memberships. We created a variety of low cost membership products offering our RVers and campers more choices to enjoy the lifestyle.

With all the change, our philosophy to provide our customers products that meet their needs, fulfill their lifestyle desires and engender long term relationships has never wavered, nor has our objective to deliver long term stable cash flow for our shareholders.

We provide the framework in which our customers can picture their lifestyle. A framework that stands on stability and consistency as the world around it changes.

He makes his home where living is best.

Special people in our life sometimes can become our family, it doesn't mean they have to be blood related.

I love camping
because it's peaceful.
Most of all, my wife
and two children are
there to share it all.
-Joe A.

As we were driving out of the preserve, I saw a doe who had just given birth and we watched the baby taking its first steps! What a miracle! There is nothing more beautiful than nature! - Allan K.

To me a lush carpet
of pine needles or
spongy grass
is more welcoming
than the most luxurious Persian rug.

A journey is best measured in friends,
rather than miles.

Finding my old friends and making new ones.

All the beautiful places
you will see like the coastlines, the forests, the mountains, the beaches...

There are many wonderful things
that will never be done if you do not do them.

The quality of life is determined by its activities.

They offer so much
here we just don't have time to do it
all.
